

I am adamantly opposed to the Consumer Bankers Association's (CBA) challenge to Indiana's Telephone Privacy law. The CBA's attempt to impose the federal "established business relationship" exemption on Indiana consumers would mean that, if successful, anybody that I currently have a business relationship with (e.g., my bank, credit card company, long distance carrier) will be able to call me as often as they want. Over an eighteen month period, that could translate to over 800,000,000 more unwanted phone calls to Indiana residents. That is ridiculous and I urge you to NOT make a ruling in favor of CBA, therefore weakening Indiana's law!
